

I stand before you a local woman of Bridlington, with 6 sisters and 2 Brothers, all of whom have children and grandchildren and Bridlington born and bred.

On this side of the table is pretty much the population of Bridlington represented by the Harbour Commissioners, Lord Feofees and Bridlington Town Council.

On this side of the table is a body that consists of 6 local representatives. The council has consulted ASDA, The Coal Authority but not 'Janice who owns the grocers'

I do not envy your task

Put the money into what we have already and bring out its hidden beauty, unfortunately this side is working miles away from the town (not city!) Off computers and drawings, wondering how to divide it up, 'Justifiably' to make it a more retail friendly place thus attracting tourism.

Why not develop the Crescent where there are 6 storey high beautiful old buildings. Two of these hotels are currently up for sale with a hotel room capacity of 40. The gardens in the centre would make attractive residents parking holding 60 spaces.

We want to see the town prosper so we are only making these requests of change to enhance the plan not hinder it.

In a nutshell the parking situation will be people cruising around rear residential streets for parking. Queuing to get into Lord Feofees car park, parking for free at Tesco or paying a loaf of bread an hour to park at the council run multi-storey.

Parking is a must for the future and should be added at any opportunity not taken away. I don't want to see the council with egg on their faces a year after its inception - as has happened with king street.
